

Directions and Parking Maxwell Dworkin 119

By Bicycle

The non-interstate-highway portions of the driving directions below apply to bicycles as well. Bicycle parking is readily available outside the building.

By Driving and Parking

On-street parking is scarce in Cambridge, though there are several public parking lots and garages. Please consider driving to Alewife station instead, which is the north end of the subway's Red Line and has much parking available, then take the subway for 3 stops into Harvard (see directions "by subway" below). To get to Alewife from the Massachusetts Turnpike (I-90), exit onto I-95 (aka Route 128) North. To get to Alewife from I-95 / Route-128, exit onto Route 2 East. Route 2 East ends at Alewife station. The nearest parking garage is located at 52 Oxford Street. Click here to go to the Harvard University Parking Office website. Upon entering the building, take the elevator to the first floor then take a left upon exiting towards Room 119.

By Subway (MBTA)

Take the Red Line to the Harvard Square T stop. Take the exit nearest the train, labeled Harvard Yard.

As you leave the station you will be on Mass Ave facing north, with a black iron fence on your right. Follow the sidewalk, which will bend around to the right, to Cambridge Street.

As soon as you can cross Cambridge Street, turn left and do so over the underpass, and keep going north past the Science Center (a sprawling modern building on your right). You will pass a brick music building and a brick physics building on your right.

At that point, you will be in one corner of the tree-filled Law School quadrangle. Maxwell Dworkin is at the opposite corner. Take the elevator to the first floor then take a left upon exiting towards Room 119.

(The preceding directions are in part courtesy of Digitas)