

Of Canaries and Choirs:

A Primer for Establishing Mentoring Relationships and Fostering Inclusion in the Sciences

Join Dr. John Matsui at this informative and practical discussion on the topic of mentoring in the sciences. Dr. Matsui will discuss his considerable experience helping undergraduate students, graduate students and postdoctoral fellows develop mentoring networks in a diverse scientific community, focusing particularly on issues such as establishing mentoring relationships, the mentoring process and how effective and more inclusive mentoring practices at all stages of the scientific training pipeline is critical to the scientific enterprise.

Dr. Matsui is a professor of molecular and cellular biology at UC Berkeley and is the Director of the renowned Biology Scholars Program, which was honored with the prestigious White House Presidential Award for Excellence in Science, Mathematics and Engineering Mentoring in 1998.

Thursday, December 13, 2007

12:00 p.m. - 1:30 p.m.

Lunch will be Provided

Maxwell Dworkin, Room 119

33 Oxford Street

Featuring:

John Matsui, PhD

Director of Biology Scholars Program,
University of California Berkeley

Space is limited, RSVP to adrian_hoquee@harvard.edu by Tuesday, December 11.

Sponsored By:

The Office of Faculty Development & Diversity
&
The Office for Postdoctoral Affairs

Visit the Faculty Affairs website at faculty.harvard.edu for more information, or contact Elton James at elton_james@harvard.edu.